Shipping's New Era: Who are the new Kings of the Jungle?

2010 is being hailed as a year of uncertainty as the shipping industry starts to position itself to emerge out of recession. But what effect will the worst shipping crisis in living memory have on ship owners and managers and their fleets? Will there be the level of bankruptcies as initially thought and who will end up controlling the world's fleets? What effect will the changing face of shipping have on the third party management sector and will the large numbers of ships scheduled to be delivered from the world's shipyards materialise and further impact on the fortunes of the shipping industry this year?

The 5th International Ship Management Summit will answer these and many other questions

This one day conference to be chaired by Intertanko Managing Director Peter Swift will examine 'Shipping's New Era' from the perspective of the ship owner, ship manager, banker and regulator and will ask who will be the new Kings of the Jungle in terms of fleets controlled, legislation passed and shipping services rendered

Sponsorship Opportunities

Ship Management International has a variety of sponsorship and exhibiting opportunities for this event, giving your organisation invaluable contact with the delegate audience.

Sponsorship packages can be tailored to meet your strategies, objectives and promotional budgets and our exhibition package gives you exposure in and around the refreshment networking area - all sponsorship packages include access to the full event

Previous Conferences

Hear what delegates said about past International Ship Management Summits

"A thoroughly worthwhile event for both networking and the quality of the material discussed"

"One topic covered thoroughly gave depth to the SMI event - superb!"

"It is important that conferences reach conclusions and are not just talking shops, this did it brilliantly"

"Such a high level of speakers - sets SMI events above the competition"
